Dear Friends of Veronica Karaman,

I am very honored to be asked to introduce you to someone very special. Veronica Karaman is one of the most unique people that I know... and one of my favorite!

She's fun! She's gorgeous! And she has a message for the world – for teens, college students, parents, golfers, and anyone who wants to have richer relationships with people in their lives and be equipped with both attitudes and skills that will help them in business, academics or just to have the courage to pursue their dreams.

A former pro golfer, Veronica is an outstanding speaker whose inspired message changes lives. She also leads coaching sessions both in person and online helping people rebuild and strengthen relationships.

I first met Veronica in Graduate School in Virginia shortly after she had developed a very unique, effective and transformational program called, “God's Way to An A” which grew out of her research paper on Finding God in your Academics and serving God through your studies. It was exciting to see the freedom and new purpose thousands of students received after being part of Veronica's workshops.

While at Grad school, Veronica launched a prayer and social networking group called, “Sisters,” for women of the university to come together and support and encourage each other. Veronica graduated with a double Masters Degree with a remarkable straight 4.0.

Veronica is the real deal. She's dealt with pain. She's experienced loss. She knows the exhilaration of victory and the anguish of betrayal. From her life experience and the wisdom gleaned from her years of study and intimate walk with God, Veronica has a unique ability to be able to relate to people, and inspiring them on their life journey.

I'm thankful to have Veronica be part of my life.
